APOLOGETICS CORNER

Defending our Faith with the Truth

By Father Dennis M. Gordon, FSSP

Evidence of Purgatory

Question: “Where is there Scriptural evidence for the Catholic idea of purgatory?”

Answer: “There are a number of places in Sacred Scripture that refer to purgatory. Let’s first recall that purgatory is the place of temporal punishment for the souls who die in the state of grace, yet with some stain of sin. Souls that die with mortal sin go to hell for eternity: and unlike souls that go straight to heaven, the souls in purgatory must still do penance and make expiation before going to heaven, either in atonement that is still lacking for forgiven mortal sins, or in expiation for unforgiven venial (lesser) sins, or both. We know that a soul which dies with these imperfections still on the soul must have them cleansed away in order to enter heaven since ‘there shall not enter into it anything defiled’ (Revelation 21:27). Let’s look!

“Check out Ecclesiasticus [Sirach] 7:37, written about 180 B.C., where among a list of spiritual and corporal works of mercy, we find these words, ‘Restrain not grace from the dead’. By telling us that we should not hold back grace from the dead, this passage is saying that we can help the dead (the souls in purgatory, that is) to obtain grace by praying for them. It also indicates that there are some of the dead who are in need of and can benefit from our prayers, which is in line with the Catholic idea of purgatory. This is the meaning of this passage.

“There is also 2 Maccabees 12:43-46, written around 120 B.C.; ‘And making a gathering, he sent twelve thousand drachms of silver to Jerusalem for sacrifice to be offered for the sins of the dead, thinking well and religiously concerning the resurrection, (For if he had not hoped that they that were slain should rise again, it would have seemed superfluous and vain to pray for the dead.) And because he considered that they who had fallen asleep with godliness, had great grace laid up for them. It is therefore a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead, that they may be loosed from sins.’

“Notice some key points about these verses:

The devout Jews understand that they can have sacrifice offered for the dead

The ones who are benefitting are those who had died (‘fallen asleep’) with godliness; in other words, they were in the state of grace, not mortal sin

They understand that their prayers are effectual to releasing these souls from their sins

“Now, one may object that these are from books that are in a Catholic Bible, but are not in a Protestant bible. Although these books were written before Our Lord lived in the Holy Land, and they were accepted by the Jews as inspired Scripture, nonetheless let’s take a look at evidence from books of the Bible that are also in Protestant bibles.

“In 1 Corinthians 3:12-15 we read the following: ‘Now if any man build upon this foundation [Christ Jesus], gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble: Every man’s work shall be manifest; for the day of the Lord shall declare it, because it shall be revealed in fire; and the fire shall try every man’s work, of what sort it is. If any man’s work abide, which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward. If any man’s work burn, he shall suffer loss; but he himself shall be saved, yet so as by fire.’

“The early Christians, St. Augustine among them, took these words to be a reference to purgatory. Notice some key points about this passage:

Fire will be used to purify a man’s works

Some men’s works, compared to hay, wood and stubble, which are combustible, will burn, unlike other men’s works, compared to gold, silver and precious stones, which don’t burn

The man whose works burn will suffer loss, but he shall be saved, through fire

Works that burn were seen by the early Christians to be a reference to works that are stained in some way by sin

“So, there are a number of places in Sacred Scripture which refer to purgatory. There are other places, including Matthew 5:25, but we don’t have time to go into these. It is enough to say that purgatory is not just a ‘Catholic’ idea, it is certainly a Biblical one!”

Introduction to the Devout Life

St. Francis de Sales, Part I, chapters 6 & 7

The first purification to be made is from sin; the means whereby to make it, the sacrament of penance. Seek the best confessor within your reach, use one of the many little books written in order to help the examination of conscience. Read some such book carefully, examining point by point wherein you have sinned, from the first use of your reason to the present time. And if you mistrust your memory, write down the result of your examination. Having thus sought out the evil spots in your conscience, strive to detest them, and to reject them with the greatest abhorrence and contrition of which your heart is capable; bearing in mind these four things: that by sin you have lost God's Grace, rejected your share in Paradise, accepted the pains of Hell, and renounced God's Eternal Love. You see, my child, that I am now speaking of a general confession of your whole life, which, while I grant it is not always necessary, I yet believe will be found most helpful in the beginning of your pursuit after holiness, and therefore I earnestly advise you to make it. Not unfrequently the ordinary confessions of persons leading an everyday life are full of great faults, and that because they make little or no preparation, and have not the needful contrition. Owing to this deficiency such people go to confession with a tacit intention of returning to their old sins, inasmuch as they will not avoid the occasions of sin, or take the necessary measures for amendment of life, and in all such cases a general confession is required to steady and fix the soul. But, furthermore, a general confession forces us to a clearer self knowledge, kindles a wholesome shame for our past life, and rouses gratitude for God's Mercy, Which has so long waited patiently for us; it comforts the heart, refreshes the spirit, excites good resolutions, affords opportunity to our spiritual Father for giving the most suitable advice, and opens our hearts so as to make future confessions more effectual. Therefore, I cannot enter into the subject of a general change of life and entire turning to God, by means of a devout life, without urging upon you to begin with a general confession.

All the children of Israel went forth from the land of Egypt, but not all went forth heartily, and so, when wandering in the desert, some of them sighed after the leeks and onions, the fleshpots of Egypt. Even so there are penitents who forsake sin, yet without forsaking their sinful affections; that is to say, they intend to sin no more, but it goes sorely against them to abstain from the pleasures of sin; they formally renounce and forsake sinful acts, but they turn back many a fond lingering look to what they have left, like Lot's wife as she fled from Sodom. They are like a sick man who abstains from eating melon when the doctor says it would kill him, but who all the while longs for it, talks about it, bargains when he may have it, would at least like just to sniff the perfume, and thinks those who are free to eat of it very fortunate. And so, these weak cowardly penitents abstain awhile from sin, but reluctantly; they would fain be able to sin without incurring damnation; they talk with a lingering taste of their sinful deeds, and envy those who are yet indulging in the like. Thus a man who has meditated some revenge gives it up in confession, but soon after he is to be found talking about the quarrel, averring that but for the fear of God he would do this or that; complaining that it is hard to keep the Divine rule of forgiveness; would to God it were lawful to avenge one's self! Who can fail to see that even if this poor man is not actually committing sin, he is altogether bound with the affections thereof, and although he may have come out of Egypt, he yet hungers after it, and longs for the leeks and onions he was wont to feed upon there! It is the same with the woman who, though she has given up her life of sin, yet takes delight in being sought after and admired. Alas! of a truth, all such are in great peril.

Be sure, my child, that if you seek to lead a devout life, you must not merely forsake sin; but you must further cleanse your heart from all affections pertaining to sin; for, to say nothing of the danger of a relapse, these wretched affections will perpetually enfeeble your mind, and clog it, so that you will be unable to be diligent, ready and frequent in good works, wherein nevertheless lies the very essence of all true devotion. Souls which, in spite of having forsaken sin, yet retain such likings and longings, remind us of those persons who, without being actually ill, are pale and sickly, languid in all they do, eating without appetite, sleeping without refreshment, laughing without mirth, dragging themselves about rather than walking briskly. Such souls as I have described lose all the grace of their good deeds, which are probably few and feeble, through their spiritual languor.
