APOLOGETICS CORNER

Defending our Faith with the Truth

By Father Dennis M. Gordon, FSSP

Early Church Disputes

Question: “How were theological disputes settled in the early Christian Church? Didn’t they just search and cite the Scriptures?”

Answer: “Ah, my friend, we can look in Acts 15 to find that out!

“In a key theological dispute about whether or not Circumcision was required for salvation in the New Law, we see a model for how the earliest Christians settled theological questions. In Acts 15 we see this dispute unfold. Recall that Circumcision was a very important rite, since it was how one entered into the Old Covenant itself, and therefore how one was ‘saved’ under the Old Law (Genesis 17:10). It was a commandment of God Himself! Salvation (in the Old Covenant) depended upon it! However, the question arose whether or not the Gentiles (the non-Jews) who converted to Christianity needed to undergo this rite for salvation as every Jew had. Some said, ‘except you be circumcised after the manner of Moses, you cannot be saved’ (Acts 15:1), so getting the answer right was very important. Those who said ‘yes, it was necessary for salvation’, had very good Scriptural arguments on their side. However, let’s see how those first Christians, including St. Paul, St. Peter, St. James and St. Barnabas (all apostles) actually settled this very important question.

“Did they have a ‘verse war’? In other words, to settle this very important dispute about salvation itself, did they go verse-for-verse through Scripture to prove their points? You may be surprised to know that the answer is no! Acts 15:2 says that to settle the dispute Paul and Barnabas went ‘to the apostles and priests to Jerusalem, about this question’.

“Acts 15:6-12 tells us what happened next: ‘*And the apostles and ancients assembled to consider of this matter. And when there had been much disputing, Peter, rising up, said to them: Men, brethren, you know that in former days God made choice among us, that by my mouth the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel and believe. And God, who knoweth the hearts, gave testimony, giving unto them the Holy Ghost, as well as to us... Now, therefore, why tempt you God to put a yoke upon the necks of the disciples which neither our fathers nor we have been able to bear? But by the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, we believe to be saved, in like manner as they also. And all the multitude held their peace.’

“First point: when they had a very important doctrinal question, they took it to the authority in the Church for the answer (the ‘Magisterium’) - they didn’t simply consult Scripture and let Scripture speak for itself!

“Second point: the final say in the matter was not a Scriptural verse, but the final say instead was when the first Pope made an authoritative, formal doctrinal decision and pronouncement: then all the multitude held their peace. Keep in mind that this was a multitude of bishops and apostles, including St. Paul himself! Once St. Peter made an authoritative, formal doctrinal decision and pronouncement, they submitted to his authority. The point is that there is a hierarchy of authority, even among the apostles.

“Third point: Although there were sound Scriptural arguments for the idea that Circumcision was necessary for salvation, ‘God... gave testimony’ (Acts 15:8) St. Peter decided that no, it is no longer necessary for salvation. This shows that to the earliest Christians, the final say in doctrinal questions was in fact the authority of the Church, not Scripture!

“Fourth point: Even though the early Christians had Scripture ‘God gave testimony’ (Acts 15:8) to the hierarchy of the Church by events that took place to guide them to make a decision which would seem to have been contrary to previous Scripture, leaving it to the hierarchy to discern what God was doing (as when God told St. Peter to eat things that in the Old law would have been forbidden, to symbolically teach him to welcome the Gentiles into the Church, in Acts 10).

“Once we realize how God guided the early leadership in the Church to make decisions, we can see that to those earliest Christians, the ultimate authority rested with the ones of whom ‘God made choice among us’ (Acts 15:7) to decide doctrinal matters, even when it would seem there are convincing Scriptural arguments.”

On the Virtue of Hope

St Alphonsus Liguori

(Instructions for the People)

What is Hope?

Hope is a virtue which God infuses into our souls (into our will), by which we expect from the divine mercy, with certain confidence, eternal beatitude through the merits of Jesus Christ, and also by means of the good works that we shall perform with God's assistance.

But if God is our hope, for what reason does the holy Church have us call the Blessed Virgin Mary 'our hope' (from the Hail Holy Queen: "Our life, our sweetness and our hope...") We must make a distinction: God, as the author of grace and of every good, is our principal hope; and Mary is our hope, because she prays for us to Jesus Christ.

Hence, St. Bonaventure thus addresses her: "Through thee, O first finder of grace, Mother of salvation, we have access to the Son, that, through thee, he may receive us, who through thee was given to us." He meant to say, that as we have access to the Father only through Jesus Christ, who is the mediator of justice, so we have access to the Son only through Mary, who is a Mediatrix of grace, and by her prayers obtains for us and dispenses those graces that Christ merited and provided for us. Hence, St. Bonaventure called Mary the entire ground of his hope. So also the holy Church teaches us to call her "our life, our sweetness, and our hope."

How is the precept of hope violated?

1) Hope is violated by despair of the divine mercy. Thus Cain sinned when, after having killed his brother Abel, he said: "My iniquity is greater than that I may deserve pardon" (Genesis 4:13). As if God, who has said: "Turn ye to Me . . . and I will turn to you?" (Zacharias 1:3) could not pardon him even though he should repent of his sin.

2) The precept of hope is violated by presumption, or thinking that one will be saved either without God's assistance, or that one will be saved without renouncing sin.

If we wish, therefore, to obtain holy perseverance, we must always distrust ourselves, and place our confidence in God. He who trusts in his own strength to conquer temptations will receive no aid from God, and will be defeated by his enemies. They who wish to overcome temptations must have recourse immediately, and with confidence, to God. "None of them", said David, "that trust in Him shall offend" (Psalm 33:23). And God himself says: "Because he hoped in Me, I will deliver him" (Psalm 90:14).

St. John Damascene, in his life of Josaphat, the monk, relates that this young man was the son of a king, and heir to the throne, but, enlightened by a celestial admonition, in order to secure his salvation, he despised all the riches and delights of the earth, and fled from the royal palace, and retired into a desert, where he spent all the remaining days of his life in prayer and penitential austerities. At his death, angels were seen carrying his blessed soul to heaven.

Listen to what a woman did in order to gain heaven. When the Arian Emperor Valens had commanded the prefect of the city to put to death all the Catholics who should assemble at a certain place in order to perform their devotions, the prefect, on his way to execute the barbarous order, met a young woman carrying an infant in her arms, and walking very quickly. Being asked where she was going, she replied: "I am going to the place where the other Catholics assemble." "But do you not know," said the prefect, "that they are all to be put to death?" "It is for that very reason," rejoined the woman, "that I am hastening thither with this my only child, that we may have the happiness of dying for Jesus Christ, and of going to enjoy him in heaven." As soon as the prefect heard this, he returned to the emperor, and related the fact. Confounded by the generous resolution of the woman, the emperor ordered her to be left in peace.

How does one make an Act of Hope?

"My God, trusting in Thy promises, because Thou art faithful, powerful, and merciful, I hope, through the merits of Jesus Christ, for the glory of heaven and the means to obtain it; that is, the pardon of my sins, and final perseverance in Thy grace."
